Move from managing risk to enabling better decisions

Many organizations struggle to answer critical strategic questions:

- Which business objectives are most exposed to uncertainty?
- What essential outcomes must continue during disruption?
- Where are our critical dependencies?
- How resilient are our operations and decision-making processes?
- Can leadership clearly see how risks impact performance and value creation?
- Are governance activities driving better decisions or simply reporting information?

Traditional governance, risk, compliance, and resilience programs often generate extensive information but fail to provide the context leaders need to understand how uncertainty affects strategic objectives.

A different approach to governance, risk & resilience

Combining BRAVE's governance and resilience expertise with CoreStream GRC's flexible technology platform, organizations gain the visibility and insight needed to make confident decisions when it matters most, shifting from siloed risk management activities to an objective-centric approach that connects strategy, risk, resilience, governance, and performance.

Start with objectives, not risk registers

Objectives@Risk places organizational objectives and critical outcomes at the center of governance, connecting:

- Strategic Objectives
- Risks
- Scenarios
- Critical Dependencies
- Controls
- Assurance Activities
- Resilience Capabilities
- Performance Outcomes

"This partnership reflects our value-based GRC philosophy perfectly. BRAVE starts with what the organization is trying to achieve, and CoreStream GRC helps operationalize that thinking through connected data, workflows, reporting, and decision support. The result is a more practical, integrated approach to GRC that helps leaders create and protect value."
